

Cue for Treason- Conflict

Conflict is essential to any story. Conflict is what makes a story happen! In any text, there are often multiple conflicts that exist. There are two main types of conflict:

1. internal (person versus self, person versus fate)
2. external (person versus person, person versus nature, person versus society)

Task: As you read the novel, trace examples of various conflicts that exist using the chart below.  Remember that conflicts sometimes span multiple chapters or even the whole text so you may not be able to answer all questions immediately*

Type of conflict	Who or what is involved	List the relevant details of the conflict	Explain if and how the conflict is resolved	Explain the purpose of the conflict for your overall understanding of the story
